STREET PROJECT PRICE IS REVISED

Council Accepts New Fig- ure; City Expense Re- mains The Same

The state highway department's revised estimate of the proposed E. State st. resurfacing was accepted by city council at a special meeting last night.

The new estimate places the job at $6,600, instead of $9,000, with the city's share of expense in the improvement still being $1,000. The service director was again authorized to enter into a contract with the state highway department so as to advertise the project.

Service department workers are continuing to make new service line installations in the downtown area and patch the street in preparation for the resurfacing which is expected to be done sometime this summer. The job will be let by the state highway department.

The section to be improved is E. State st. between Ellsworth and Lincoln avenues.

HONOR STUDENTS LISTED AT LISBON

Miss Rella Muntean First; 86 Seniors To Get Diplomas

LISBON, May 13.—Miss Rella Muntean was announced as first honor student of the graduating class of David Anderson High school at Senior day activities in the high school today, including the chapel program presented by the class.

Second honors, announced by Miss Sadie Van Fossan, principal, were accorded Louis McKenna, in the class of 86 young men and women who will be graduated at commencement exercises on Friday evening, June 5.

E. C. Ramsey of Washington, D. C., former European war correspondent, will deliver the commencement address. Rev. Carl W. Bormuth, pastor of St. Jacob's Reformed church, will speak at baccalaureate services to be held in the high school auditorium Sunday evening, May 31.

Following is the list of young people who will receive diplomas: Phyllis Mae Allison, Helen Anderson, Jean Anglemeyer, June Carolyn Apple, Glenn A. Arter, John Orr Beck, Elizabeth Bergant, June Ann Boring, Ruth Eloise Bruy, David C. Burrell.

SERVICES OPENED BY BLIND PREACHER

Dr. Walter D. Kallenbach, blind preacher and musician, pointed out how to discover the reality of God in his opening address at the First Baptist church Tuesday evening. He will speak nightly at 7:30, except Saturday, through May 24.

The audience included persons from Alliance, Lisbon, Leetonia and other neighboring communities. Rev. J. Morgan Cox of Lisbon, led in prayer.

Tonight the famed blind evangelist will speak concerning the temptation of Christ and the temptation of man. He also will demonstrate his ability to use a typewriter and will play a cornet solo. A former cornetist in Paul Whitman's band, he will present musical selections each evening.

Dr. Kallenbach was interviewed over radio station WKBN, Youngstown, this morning.

Coal Dealers Meet

CINCINNATI, May 13.—The coal industry has "ample raw materials" essential in the war program and, at the same time, the market is not so tight as it has been, according to President Thomas I. Borden asserted at the 11th annual coal conference. The Van Wert, O., executive said coal producers would "do their jobs in the present crisis."

56 PERISH IN W. VIRGINIA MINE TRAGEDY

Rescue Crews Recover 35 Bodies, Report 21 More In Mine

OSAGE, W. Va., May 13.—Rescue crews coming out of the blasted No. 3 mine of the Christopher Coal company announced today the recovery of the bodies of 35 victims of the explosion and reported 21 more remained inside, bringing the unofficial death toll of 56.

One group emerged at 10:40 a. m. with nine bodies and at 11:45 a. m. Three others were brought out. The crew members, four of whom were overcome by overexertion deep in the mine previously had brought out 23 bodies.

70 REACH SAFETY AFTER EXPLOSION

Cause Of Blast In Osage Coal Works Is Not Determined

OSAGE, W. Va., May 13.—Rescue crews coming out of the blasted No. 3 mine of the Christopher Coal company announced today the recovery of the bodies of 35 victims of the explosion and reported 21 more remained inside, bringing the unofficial death toll of 56.

One group emerged at 10:40 a. m. with nine bodies and at 11:45 a. m. Three others were brought out. The crew members, four of whom were overcome by overexertion deep in the mine previously had brought out 23 bodies.

56 List Not Final

One of the bodies recovered was that of Tony Belez, section foreman, who had not been listed as on duty. David Christopher, official of the mining company, asserted that the death list of 56 was not final.

Seventy other workers fled to safety after the blast let go at 2:20 p. m. (E. W. T.) in the No. 3 mine.

T. E. Griffith, U. S. bureau of mines engineer, said 110 more would have been in the mine if coal cars which were to have carried them inside had not been 15 minutes late.

It was not immediately determined what caused the explosion—West Virginia's most disastrous since January, 1940, when 91 were killed at Bartley in the southern part of the state.

World-Wide War Developments

This map shows where the Germans have opened a spring drive in the Crimea, with the offensive concentrated on the Kerch peninsula, gateway to the Soviet's Caucasian oil riches. According to a dispatch from Bern, Switzerland, a German Army of 2,000,000 men and between 1,000 and 2,000 Nazi planes have gone into action on a 250-mile front between Dnepropetrovsk and the Kerch end of the Crimean peninsula.

The bill, already passed by the senate, was approved unanimously by the house committee.

Rep. Maas of Minnesota, the committee's ranking Republican member, declared the navy's hands should be freed to construct rigid as well as the non-rigid type, for patrol work outside the range of a blimp.

Captain Charles E. Rosendahl, in charge of navy blimps, told the committee that the "rigids" would fit into the picture.

"I think a big airship, serving as an airplane carrier, could be very valuable," he declared. Later, he said that a large airship could carry 10 to 12 planes, releasing them for bombing attacks when an enemy vessel was sighted.

"Of course," he acknowledged, "such an airship could be shot down or bombed."

"So can a battleship," injected a committee member.

Blind Teacher Employed By Sebring School Board

SEBRING, May 13.—A blind man and his dog will become a part of the McKinley High school faculty next term.

The board of education yesterday elected Reid Swindler, sightless from birth, to teach Spanish. A graduate of the University of Tulsa, he took post graduate work in the University of Florida and in Stetson university and taught Spanish and psychology in a Florida high school before moving here.

He will be accompanied into his classroom by his faithful "seeing-eye" dog which never leaves his side and will teach by the Braille system and with the aid of a monitor.

Study Janitors' Pay

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 13.—The board of education today voted to reconsider, at a conference Monday, a proposed new wage scale for school janitors who have rejected a 10-cent hourly pay increase for summer work.

The proposal is for 60 cents an hour for common labor and 65 cents for foremen. Union leaders have asked a 70-75-cent rate.

REDs DECLARE NO MAJOR GAIN HAS BEEN MADE

Hitler Uses 2,000 BOMBERS IN DRIVE

Hitler Asserts 40,000 Rus- sian Prisoners Have Been Captured

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, May 13.—Adolf Hitler has gathered perhaps 2,000,000 of his best combat troops in the Ukraine and is reported to be using 2,000 dive bombers to smash through the Kerch peninsula in the Crimea, but informed quarters here today discounted his claims of having driven a breach into the Russian lines.

One informed source said the Kerch attack could be regarded as the opening of a three-pronged offensive to the Caucasus, with other drives to be expected from Taganrog and Kharkov.

Aviation is the key to the Kerch battle, this source added, because if the Russians maintain air parity they have a good chance of smashing the Germans in any attempt to cross the strait even if they push the Russians off the peninsula.

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor
Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted today that the critical five-day-old "battle to break through on the Isthmus of Kerch" in the Crimea, gateway to the Caucasus oil riches, had been "decided" with annihilation of Russians encircled there and the capture of 40,000 prisoners.

Heavy fighting continued. Dispatches indicated that after breaching Soviet lines at the entrance to Kerch peninsula, the Germans still had nearly 50 miles to go to reach Kerch city, just across the narrow Kerch strait from the Caucasus.

The battle, regarded as a test phase of Hitler's long-heralded spring offensive, started last Friday along a 12-mile front on the peninsula.

While the Germans claimed a smashing victory, a Soviet mid-day communique reported "no substantial changes" overnight.

No Major Gains Seen
This would indicate that neither side had scored any major gains. In a special communique, the German high command declared:

"The battle of the breach on the Isthmus of Kerch has been decided. It concluded with the annihilation of enemy forces, which have been overrun and encircled there."

"Pursuit of the beaten remainder of the enemy is being continued in the direction of Kerch."

The Nazi communique said that, in addition to the 40,000 Soviet prisoners—nearly three divisions—the Russians had lost 197 tanks, 598

WELFARE DIVISION CUTS USE OF SUGAR

COLUMBUS, May 13.—The state welfare department, which used 2,500,000 pounds of sugar in 1941, has reduced its sugar consumption rate more than 30 per cent, in the first four months of this year, Assistant Director Herbert R. Mooney reported today.

Careful conservation, asked by Gov. John W. Bricker soon after outbreak of the war, has enabled the department to build up a sugar inventory sufficient to supply the 38,000 population in 22 institutions several months without drawing on sugar available under the rationing program.

Present plans are for each institution to receive for table use 50 per cent and for canteen 90 per cent of what they used last year. The rationing program will be expanded greatly over last year, and subsistence managers of the institutions are experimenting with substitutes for sugar, Mooney said.

OUTING IS PLANNED FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

LISBON, May 13.—Plans are being arranged for the annual Play-day of the Columbiana county rural and village schools, to be held at Idora park, Youngstown, on Friday, May 22. Schools will be dismissed, and pupils, many accompanied by their parents, will enjoy a day's outing.

It will be an exclusive Columbiana county affair, with free parking and free gate to all persons from this county. There will be two hours of free dancing during the afternoon.

WANTED WAITRESS AT TOWN TALK BENTON ROAD

They will be arraigned in Cleveland today. Both are free on $1,500 bonds.

They are charged with failing to appear at Draft Board No. 3 in Lisbon.

Both men are preachers of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect, and they contend they should not have been placed in Class 1-A because they are ministers.

Lisbon Cleans Up

LISBON, May 13.—With half of the annual town cleanup completed, Street Commissioner Roy Patterson announced 60 loads of tin cans and rubbish were hauled to the dump last week. Hauling of the winter's accumulation of ashes, also a free service, has begun.

War "Lab" Is Planned
COLUMBUS, May 13.—A war research laboratory will be built at Ohio State university with $350,000 allocated by the state board of control. The board also provided $20,000 for a naval radio training school at Miami university and $9,750 for a mess hall there.

BATTLES AND THE WAR

There is understandable anxiety over American chestiness following the naval engagement in the Coral sea. The effect would be bad for all concerned if the affair turned out to be another battle of the Java sea.

Consequently, it is being emphasized by the cautious that the Japanese invasion force routed was not large and that the one certain consequence of its defeat will be a renewal of the attack—in greater force.

It is too bad there have not been more victories for American confidence to feed on; a better balanced diet would avert the overwhelming appetite for good news that distorts a bombing of several Japanese cities into a major aerial attack and a naval engagement into the turning point of the war.

The Axis assassins will know their plot to terrorize the world has failed when they cease to be favorites to win the battles they are able to begin at their own convenience, after choosing the place and circumstances. The assassins will be routed for good when they begin to lose battles in the East China sea, the Baltic and the Mediterranean.

GAS WARFARE

Gas warfare, as far as its possibilities have been demonstrated, is approximately 75 percent nervous and 25 percent physical. That is, in fact, the principal reason for assuming the Germans will resort to it. They have shown themselves to be specialists in terror.

If they use gas, as Prime Minister Churchill has warned they may do, it will be for effect on the morale of their enemies. There is no reason to believe Germany would be able to hold any advantage in gas warfare; since Mr. Churchill's warning, it would not even hold the advantage of surprise.

The apparent reason for talking about gas is to lay the blame on Germany in advance if it is used. Presumably, Mr. Churchill, himself, was convinced that it is going to be used, or he wouldn't have mentioned it. Like aerial bombing, which was the terrible unknown that was going to win the war for Germany—but didn't—gas probably is more useful as a potential weapon than it will be in actual use, which quickly would disclose limitations that cannot readily be foreseen.

MR. CHURCHILL AND THE NOZZIES

This is in the nature of a tip for the morale builders. Winston Churchill is their best bet.

When he talks about the "Nozzies" and their Italian stooge, Mussolini, this war quits being a grim business of keeping the aggressors from licking the tar out of our side and becomes a whoopee crusade against an organized gang of throat cutters who would be, if they were not worthy of their enemies' holy wrath, worthy only of contempt. Mr. Churchill has the knack of using scorn to relieve his listeners' pent-up feelings the way a surgeon uses a knife to lance an infection; when he's through the pressure has been relieved and everybody feels better.

His report Sunday on the second anniversary of his assumption of leadership is a brilliant addition to his collection of addresses and public appearances on the war. It is one of the few statements he has been privileged to make as Britain's war leader and spokesman for the worldwide struggle to put the blood-letters back into their cages that has not been made under extreme pressure; for once, at least, he could afford to put more stress on the favorable aspects of the war than the defeats being sustained.

All who are on his side recommend it without reservation to the close attention of posterity, when posterity wants to find out what was in the minds of the people who fought and sacrificed in World War I. They also recommend it to the Germans, to the Italians, to their sympathizers wherever they may be—and to those premature mourners who try day in and day out to conceal from themselves the potent fact that Adolf Hitler has touched the mainspring of a democratic dynamism that is going to make his authoritarian notions the really decadent political philosophy of the 20th century.

GREAT AIR BATTLES LOOM

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Wide World War Analyst

The sinking of three British destroyers in the Mediterranean is a grim reminder that air power is going to play a major part—far greater than ever before—during this crucial year of the World war.

Looking back on the terrible blood-baths which have been poured from the skies upon many peoples since the beginning of the conflict, it is difficult to believe that anything worse can be in store. Yet the indications are that we have seen little as compared with what is to come.

The new bombers now racing to the various fronts from both Allied and Axis factories are the latest that science can produce. They can fly farther and faster, carry greater loads of bombs and shoot more accurately.

Britain's Royal Air Force and Uncle Sam's air navy already have shown enough to convince the world that they have the best there is. The Nazi air fleet, however, has been playing possum through much of the winter. Without question this long period has been utilized by the fuhrer in overhauling his luftwaffe and strengthening it immeasurably with new and better machines from his factories.

We have had glimpses of a mountainous Nazi air strength. We saw it in the deaths of those destroyers, and were reminded of it again yesterday when the Nazis triumphantly advertised in connection with their offensive on the Kerch peninsula in the Crimea: "Hell has been let loose over the Bolshevik positions in the Kerch peninsula."

Hell was indeed let loose, and today the Nazis claim victory with annihilation of the Red force. On the other hand, Moscow reports no substantial change in the situation. We must await more news for clarification of the position.

The German air armada for the most part still lies idle, but that won't be for long. Hitler seems to be getting ready to strike a mighty blow somewhere.

In view of circumstances, Premier Churchill has justification for his statement that "airborne invasion becomes more and more a possibility."

Such a Nazi invasion of the British Isles might be attempted if the Muscovites are able to hold the Nazis. Still, it likely would represent an act of desperation and would be employed by Hitler only as a last resort.

What seems more likely is that the Nazi leader will stage a huge air offensive in the Mediterranean theater in conjunction with his effort to smash the Russian line and break into the Caucasus. If he can't drive through the Reds he may try to reach the Middle East in a combined air and sea operation, bypassing Turkey and striking through Syria.

Whatever form Hitler's strategy may take, it will involve a struggle for supremacy of the Mediterranean, upon which much of Britain's might now depends. That will mean an effort on his part to knock out British naval strength from the air.

When all of Hitler's warplanes finally take to the skies we shall see some mighty and far-reaching battles, for then the Royal Air Force and the growing American air fleet in Europe and the Middle East will come into action against the Nazis. This summer should produce the greatest air activity of history.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, May 14

WHILE THERE will be much activity and enterprise on this day, according to lunar transits, yet the solar position points to a definite tendency toward processes and policies that make for security and endurance rather than spectacular or aggressive operations. Under certain auguries of treachery, underhand doings and intrigues this may prove wise, with efforts directed toward safeguarding possessions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of steady movement in the direction of slow growth, attainment of solid possessions and enduring fortune rather than any measure of spectacular or fleeting flashes of luck. All forms of hazard and chance taking might be profitless, while sound and solid effort and propositions would spell security and yield concrete possessions in property, investments and personal prestige and gratification. Be alert to intrigue, deception and fraud.

A child born on this day while talented, energetic and forceful should be sound, industrious and faithful in its attack on success and good fortune.

"BEST LAID PLANS OF MICE AND MEN—"

PUBLIC STIMULATED ON HEALTH RULES

War Will Serve That Purpose, Says Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I HAVE BEEN talking to some people from England who advanced the idea that the war will produce a great awakening in the public consciousness about public health. War conditions have caused the civilian populations to depend so bigly the health department. In some states diphtheria immunization has been carried out in school children nearly 100 per cent. I believe, however, that we still could tighten up on our smallpox vaccination in the United States. Like Great Britain, we cannot afford to have one unnecessary epidemic.

Maternity Health Act

The Scottish Maternity Health Act of 1937 would be for us quite revolutionary, although a similar basic law has been in operation in Sweden for some time. Applicable to all women alike who may apply for care, the law provides for the services of physician and skilled midwife for prenatal care and delivery in the patient's home, for consultation of an obstetrician, for the attendance of the midwife as a maternity nurse if the delivery is conducted by the physician.

The rule is that all women shall be examined by the physician three times before the period of birth, and in all cases, whether delivered by a midwife or a physician, within twelve hours after delivery. The English have had to evacuate so many prospective mothers from areas which are subject to bombing and provide housing facilities for them in safe districts that this state care has become a natural, and in fact, an inevitable outgrowth.

Educational Influence

I cannot help but think that all of this will have a profound educational influence in public health matters. Most people fail to conform to hygienic rules largely because of ignorance. When once they see a health rule in operation, its common sense appeals to them and they are willing and even anxious to carry out all the provisions the next time it comes up.

It is hard to believe that a woman who has been examined regularly before the baby was born would be willing to go back to the old rule of not calling the doctor until the birth is imminent. When the public finds that diphtheria preventive inoculation and smallpox and typhoid vaccinations do no harm, they will not only submit to the procedures, but will insist upon their being carried out throughout an entire community as a matter of self-protection.

FOR DEFENSE

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Y. T.—If an adult person does not drink milk, do the teeth become softer and more likely to decay?
Answer: The value of milk in the prevention of tooth decay is simply that it furnishes calcium and phosphorus. Inasmuch as these are present in other foods, especially vegetables and fruits, they can be substituted for the milk.

MATA HARI'S Daughter

By MAURICE DEKOBRA and LEVLA GEORGIE

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT
The calm before the hurricane. Throughout the world—except in Poland and Finland—people were asking: When would real war begin?

But Poland and Finland were so far away. Elsewhere—even in France and England—the hope still flourished that somehow, in some mysterious way, the threatened catastrophe would be averted.

On clear days, German observation planes flew in leisurely fashion over England photographing docks, railroads, gasoline stores—and the great residences. German U-boats continued to exact daily toll. But in Finland there were no cities falling, no cities burning, no cities locked in combat. To the contrary, there was much talk of German planes that would not shoot, German planes that would not fly, German people famished, rebellious, ripe for revolution. The flagrant line seemed so secure and Finland's firm Mannerheim line was in a like category at that time.

It was a sort of Indian summer of civilization; a last, golden dream of peace and security and ease—a dream from which the sleepers were soon to be fearfully awakened. In London, blackout rules were relaxed. Theaters and night clubs were thronged. Titled enemy agents, allied by blood ties to the royal family, were freed from internment and allowed to wander about on parole. The last Londoners who had evacuated to the country in September, began to drift back into the city—some to Mayfair, more to the slums. Gas masks were no longer de rigueur; fever phobias were being built; people laughed at the occasional shriek of alarms—always false—of London's air-raid sirens. Appearance was officially dead; but, in spite of everything, its ghost still stalked subtly.

Vaslav's enthusiasm over the coming charity ball was undiminished. And when the night of the performance came, Covent Garden was amply filled by Britain's elite—peers, cabinet ministers, dowagers, debutantes, army and naval officers, resplendent in dress uniform. Conspicuous, too, was the usual melange of social aspirants—people who had gladly paid their two-pound-ten for the privilege of mingling with England's great.

There had been a final rehearsal of principals during the afternoon. The chessboard set, comprised of the conventional black and white squares, each three feet in diameter, occupied the stage. Back of the curtain, there was the usual feverish, last-minute bustle, augmented by the presence of amateurs in the cast and the fact that this was a first performance.

Brinda was everywhere, moving with cat-like grace about the set, correcting costumes, conferring with electricians and stagehands, speaking quick words of praise or admonition.

Brinda was forced to admire him, even though the thought came to her that at this time, he might be better using his gift for organization in the armed forces. Still, it was all for England's sake. And perhaps there had to be men who danced as well as men who fought. Besides, the Prince was Russian, and the new international line-up being what it was, it was easy to understand why he might feel under no compulsion to take up arms. He saw her, and, leaving a pretty debutante talking to empty air, hastened across the set. In an embracing look, he paid tribute to her loveliness.

"Superb!" His eyes drank in every detail—her shining hair, her exquisitely moulded features; her eyes, big and dark with excitement; her Chess Queen's costume, cut daringly low above to reveal splendid, ivory-white shoulders and slashed cunningly below in a way that bared her legs to the thigh, accentuating their slender length and flawless symmetry. He drew a deep breath.

"You are indeed a Queen, my premiere danseuse! A gold and ivory Queen, beautiful enough to rule over any empire."

A swift, strange smile suddenly lit his face. "Who knows?" he said softly. "Perhaps, after this war is done, you shall!"

Brinda's eyebrows went up mockingly. "Still mysterious!" "Only until after the ballet," he whispered. "You know the bargain? My secrets—for your love! For you!"

"Are you sure I won't get the worst of the exchange?" Brinda sparred.

"You shall judge," answered Vaslav. "But I do not play for low stakes—either in life or love. After all, it takes more than a few assassins to stamp out a dynasty." His head went proudly back, and Brinda realized as she had never realized before, that whatever Vaslav's sins and shortcomings might be, he never forgot he was of royal blood. And also, that whatever he did, he would find adequate self-justification in the knowledge that he aimed at nothing less than a throne.

A man wearing a workman's cap approached.

"Your pardon!" Vaslav bowed, conferred briefly with the man, and returned. "I'm afraid you made me forget my mission. It was to warn you that there may be a few final changes in the steps—simple ones that will not be hard to follow. If so, I shall give you the necessary directions in time. Do you think you can manage it even before an audience?"

"Unless they're very difficult," replied Brinda.

By this time, Vaslav had changed her movements from square to square so often that she knew each numbered square on the board by heart.

"Good! I'm counting on you. The others will be terrible. But the audience will forget them watching you, my lovely gallant!"

With another bow, he was gone. Only then did she realize she had neglected to ask him why the last-minute change was necessary.

From Refrigerators To Guns, Factory Makes Speedy Change

(By Associated Press)

DAYTON, May 13. — Machine guns to make it hot for Axis airplanes, instead of refrigerators and air-conditioning equipment to cool the American public, are the contribution of the Frigidaire division of General Motors corporation to the United Nations' war industry.

Only one gun—a Browning 50-millimeter anti-aircraft weapon—is in mass production, one type for the army and one for the navy. Production figures, although it is known that hundreds of guns are being turned out daily, must remain a military secret.

But M. M. Roberts, production manager, told correspondents on the National Association of Manufacturers' "production for victory" tour that "by end of May the company will have delivered 50 per cent more guns than the government production rate specifies."

Two other products made by the company also have taken their places on assembly lines formerly devoted to electric refrigerators—airplane propellers and hydraulic equipment such as a mechanism to open aircraft bomb doors. The company's research, engineering and specialized staffs also will have been switched from private business to war industry.

By June 1 the company will be out of civilian production entirely, officials said. The company's record in switching from refrigerators to machine guns is one of the best examples of adaptation of mass production in peacetime to even higher output in wartime, Roberts declared.

The building in which machine guns are being manufactured at an ever increasing rate was completed in May, 1941, and the first guns from the new assembly lines were shipped only a month later.

Today, almost a year afterward, guns are coming out at four times the original rate and further improvement in manufacturing methods is expected to raise the rate to six times the first schedule.

Adapt High Speed Methods. Frigidaire's engineers have succeeded in simplifying the method of making guns by substituting high speed and mass production for slower, more individual processes, Roberts said.

Ordinance officers in the war department have approved changes in

Rev. Woods Speaks At Kiwanis Meeting

LEETONIA, May 13.—The Kiwanis club held its weekly meeting Tuesday evening at St. Paul's Lutheran church. The Willing Workers served the dinner. Rev. P. H. Wood, pastor of the Methodist church at Columbiana, was the speaker.

His subject was "Communism." Rev. J. M. Cameron, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Lisbon; Rev. R. J. Topping, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. William C. Snowball, pastor of the Methodist church, were guests.

The Standard Bearers of the Methodist church were entertained at the home of Miss Vivian Miller, Monday evening.

Friends and relatives surprised Mrs. M. P. Finnick Sr., Tuesday evening at a farewell party. Mr. and Mrs. Finnick are moving to Struthers this week. The honor guest was presented with a shower of gifts. Lunch was served. Out of town guests were from Youngstown and Struthers.

Miss Pearl Haller has returned to her home after a three-week visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Miller at Youngstown.

Koenreich, E. Pershing st. He is a supply clerk in the medical division. Mrs. Koenreich returned with him.

Mrs. Hannah Borton, resident at the Old Ladies home, is ill.

Further Cut Seen In Phone Materials

A statement relating to a new War Production Board order further restricting the use in the telephone industry of materials essential to the war effort has just been received from Randolph Elide, of Cleveland, president of the Ohio Bell Telephone company, by Carl F. Willman, the company's commercial manager for the Salem exchange.

Manager Willman pointed out that this was the second order issued by the War Production Board, which restricted installation of telephone facilities.

The new War Production Board order further restricts the use by telephone companies of materials essential to the war effort. It forbids construction for the installation of new business or residential telephones if more than a minimum of construction work is involved, except for service required in the war effort or for public health and safety. It orders much wider use of party-line service.

A previous order restricted new installations of residence extensions, the replacement of manual private branch exchange switchboards by dial, the replacement of manual central offices by dial offices, and the replacement of desk stands by hand sets.

President Elide said: "The immediate effect of these orders will vary in different localities, depending upon what facilities are presently available. Those persons who have telephones now will not be affected by changes, except that in some places and under some circumstances they might have to change to party-line service and they cannot get extension telephones if they do not have them now."

Inconvenience Seen

"For people who have no telephones and want them, we shall supply them wherever there are enough lines and switchboards, but generally, where new construction would be necessary, we shall not be able to provide service. This will mean inconvenience and perhaps hardship to a few people now. As time goes on it will probably mean inconvenience and hardship to more people, but we ask the public's fullest cooperation in this important step to save the maximum of materials for the war. Besides the great savings in materials already made by substitution and wartime engineering, the new restrictions will mean that more lead, iron, steel, zinc, copper and rubber used in telephone equipment, will now go into arms."

"In spite of all this, and while telephone service may not be available to all who want it, we believe we can keep the service up to a high standard. At any rate, we shall do our level best. These difficulties are something that neither the government nor the telephone companies can help. They are part of the price of protecting liberty."

Explains His Stand

WASHINGTON, May 13. — Price Administrator Leon Henderson takes issue in a statement with several members of the house ways and means committee who said Monday they had received the impression from Henderson's testimony before a closed session that he favored a general freezing of wage and some form of compulsory savings.

Henderson said in the statement that he opposed general increases in wage levels but believed that the pay of sub-standard workers should be raised. The statement said he did not discuss compulsory savings before the house committee and added that he was supporting the treasury's campaign to have each individual save 10 per cent of his income voluntarily.

YOUTH WILL FACE SABOTAGE CHARGE

Elyria Apparently Fell Under Spell of "Mein Kampf" Is Theory of Police Official

CLEVELAND, May 13.—The U. S. district attorneys office announced today that Donald Kintner, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean D. Kintner of Elyria, would be charged with sabotage—the shooting of a locomotive engineer in an effort to halt a trainload of war materials.
The maximum penalty on conviction under this charge is 30 years imprisonment plus a $10,000 fine.
Jerome N. Curtis, assistant U. S.
district attorney, said Kintner would be accused of hitting New York Central Engineer F. J. Becker with a 22 caliber bullet last Friday near Elyria. His firearm took over the train's controls and brought it to the next station. Becker suffered a head wound but is recovering.

Kintner was interrupting the flow of war materials to help the German cause, and he conceived the idea of wrecking trains," Curtis said. His announcement of the charge, under wartime sabotage statutes, was made after he had conferred by telephone with department of justice superiors.
D. W. Taylor, chief of police for the New York Central, announced that Kintner admitted he "took a shot at the engineer" and also that he had fired several shots into a signal tower mechanism last week.
Young Kintner apparently "fell under the spell of Hitler's 'Mein Kampf'", an officer theorized today.

MILLER STUDYING GOVERNOR PLANS

Former Cleveland Mayor
To Run, If He Sees
Chance Of Victory

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, May 13. — Former Mayor Ray T. Miller of Cleveland planned today a canvass of the state before deciding whether to seek the Democratic nomination for governor.
"If I think I can win, I'll be a candidate," Cuyahoga county's Democratic chairman, told party leaders who urged him to run at a "draft Miller for governor" meeting last night.
Before coming here Miller announced he would not be a candidate, but later said he would decide after talking with his organization in Cleveland and studying the prospects of victory.

Bricker To Be Foe
The Democratic nominee's election opponent is virtually certain to be Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican incumbent and avowed candidate for a third term.
Spokesmen said the group which importuned Miller was composed of a number of state central committee members, state executive committee members and county chairmen, but did not represent the state organization officially.

The group also named a committee to ask other candidates to withdraw from the race and to draw up a state ticket.
A State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, one of four declared candidates, asserted before the meeting that "I do not care what they do tonight. I am the people's choice, and I am going to win the nomination."

Other candidates are former Congressman John McSweeney of Wooster, former State Treasurer
Clarence Kniskely and Frank Dye,
Columbus attorney.
Speakers suggested that Mc-Sweeney be urged to run for attorney general and Kniskely for state treasurer. Former Atty Gen. Herbert S. Duffy of Columbus already is an active Democratic candidate for the attorney general's post.

"Organization Type"
Francis Poulson, chairman of the state executive committee during the administrations of former Gov. Martin L. Davey, described Miller as "the organization type of candidate."

"We are looking for a man," he asserted, "who will play with the organizations, not one who looks down on organizations."
The public's principal interests today, Poulson declared are "the war and support of the President."
He added he thought Miller could carry that kind of a fight.

The meeting is understood to have been called to counter Mc-Sweeney's campaign. Some Democrats say that the former congressman does not have the favor of urban party leaders.

There is some indication that opposition to McSweeney is coupled with dissatisfaction over the leadership of National Committeeman Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, who is reported ready to support Mc-Sweeney.

Tanks, Today and Yesterday

Tank that the selectee in the U. S. armored forces is familiar with today bears little resemblance to its granddaddy, the little Renault tank of the British Army that made its debut at Cambrai in World War I as one of the surprises of that conflict. Compared to the great M-4 tank of the U. S. Army today, the first-ancestor verges on the comical. There have been many models in between. At the top is a World War I type tank. Center is a medium model T-1, built at the Army's Rock Island arsenal in 1927. It had two turrets, with a machine gun in each, had wooden tracks and weighed 23 tons. Below is the M-4, 24-ton chunk of destruction with rounded hull that sheds shells easily. It carries a 75-mm. canon in a power-operated turret that permits firing at any spot on a circle about it.

Asks Tire Saving

COLUMBUS, May 13.—Ted F. Silvey, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Congress of Industrial Organizations, appealed to war production workers to form groups for riding in private automobiles to conserve tires and gasoline. He said a survey in an important industrial city showed "an average of 1.3 persons for each car being driven to war production factories."

DAME NATURE AIDS U. S. IN WAR EFFORT

Bumper Harvests All Along
The Line Forecast By Government

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, May 13.—Preliminary crop reports indicated today Dame Nature had joined forces with the American farmer in the all out program for food for victory.

Bumper harvests all along the line were forecast with soil and weather conditions just about ideal.
On the enemy side of the picture, the outlook in Axis-dominated parts of the world took on a definitely unfavorable tinge.

The department of agriculture crop reporting board said the general outlook here was "decidedly good—in fact if the weather were any better, the yield of foodstuffs would be augmented even more."
The May 1 government crop report indicated a winter wheat crop of 646,875,000 bushels and a rye harvest of 53,279,000 bushels.

Big Crop Seen

The area sown to winter wheat was the smallest except for one year since 1914, the report said, but with the smallest acreage abandonment and highest yield per acre in ten years, the 1942 crop was expected to produce 22,000,000 bushels more than was adjudicated a month ago and only 24,000,000 bushels less than the huge crop of last year.

The yield per acre was estimated at 17.8 bushels and the department said there had been only two years since 1909 in which higher yields were indicated.

Broomhall, the British grain authority, reported on the other hand that over much of the European continent winter and spring crops were backward due to a recent cold, dry spell.

The department of agriculture
added the European dairy situation continued to deteriorate because of the shortage of concentrated feeds, reduced numbers of cattle, shortage of farm labor and large requisitions by the armies of invasion.

But American butter production for the week ended May 7 increased 7 per cent over the previous week and 7.8 per cent over the same week a year ago. Milk production rose more than seasonally, or about 4 per cent above that at the same time a year ago. It reported the number of milk cows was about 3 per cent greater than a year ago and estimated April milk production at 10,300,000 pounds or 14 per cent higher than the 1930-40 average.

More Young Chicks

The number of young chicks on farms was estimated at 16 per cent more than a year ago and the April production of hatchers' chicks was the largest on record, or 20 per cent above the total on April 1, 1941.
A record number of 5,992,000,000 eggs was laid in April and production was 17 per cent higher than in April a year ago. There were 342,569,000 layers on farms during April, a record number which exceeded both April, 1941, and the 10-year April average by 14 per cent.

The production of meat animals in 1941 was estimated at 36,333,000-000 pounds, a new high, or 4 1/2 per cent more than in the previous year. Production of hogs and sheep last year established new high marks and cattle production was near the record.

The trend continued for the first four months of 1942, with packers butchering 12 per cent more meat animals than in the same period last year. During this period raisers and feeders marketed 29,967,000 cattle, hogs and sheep, an increase of 3,240,000 over the corresponding period a year ago.

The condition of the early Irish potato crop in 10 southern states and California on May 1 was 78 per cent, or slightly better than on April 1.

Naval Services Minister Angus MacDonald announces the tor-pedoing of a British freighter in the St. Lawrence river (see map).
Forty-one survivors of the attack, first of its kind in this waterway's history, were landed safely at an undisclosed port.

enemy planes by means of sea-models. The instructor is holding a an American P-47 in his right.

Valuation Cut Asked

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 13.—
Ohio wants West Virginia to reduce the tax valuations on three Ohio river bridges owned by the Buckeye state. The Ohio Bridge commission asked the Mountain state to reduce by $742,000 valuations on bridges at East Liverpool, Steubenville and Pomeroy and Gov.
N. M. Neeley indicated the state would try to reciprocate for the low Ohio valuation on West Virginia owned bridges.

"I'm set for years I've just bought a brand new Pontiac!"

YOU, TOO, MAY BE ENTITLED TO BUY A NEW PONTIAC
For the specific purpose of maintaining essential public functions and assuring the successful prosecution of the war effort, the government has made it possible for many people to purchase new automobiles.
Those eligible include not only physicians, nurses, ministers and persons engaged in certain civil services, but all persons directly or indirectly employed in the prosecution of the war.
Due largely to misunderstanding, only a small part of those entitled to buy a new car are taking advantage of the government's regulation—which had behind it the patriotic purpose of enabling such people to replace worn and inefficient cars with modern, economical transportation.
If you are in any way—directly or indirectly—connected with a war activity—or if your present car should be replaced—come in and we will help you determine whether you are eligible, and then help you get a "certificate of purchase" on a new Pontiac.

THE FINE CAR WITH THE LOW PRICE
NOW AS NEVER before a new Pontiac represents a wise investment. The models now available represent the finest that Pontiac ever built from a quality standpoint. And any Pontiac owner will tell you what that means: Long life—with remarkable freedom from repair and upkeep costs; exceptional gas and oil economy; proper weight distribution—plus Pontiac's exclusive Triple-Cushioned Ride to assure unusual riding comfort and tire conservation.
The car you buy today may have to last you a long, long time. Look ahead—buy a Pontiac. And remember—it's priced just above the lowest, and you can buy it on convenient monthly terms.

ACCOUNTANTS END WINTER MEETINGS

The Youngstown chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants, whose membership includes a number of Salem men, will end its winter series of technical meetings with an "open forum" meeting Wednesday night, May 20.

The meeting will be conducted in the manner of a round table discussion of pertinent questions on industrial accounting and accounting practices under the war program.

On Saturday the group will hold its annual President's party at the Tippecanoe Country club. The dinner is scheduled for 7 p. m., with a program following. C. L. Flickinger of the Deming Co. has been president during the past year.

The accountants' organization has enjoyed a successful season, having conducted nine technical meetings and nine study clubs, besides submitting six papers to the national publication.

The national convention will be held in Chicago June 21.

Salem members of the Youngstown district society are: Flickinger, J. B. Martin, John Webber, Jr., Floyd Heacock, Andrew MacLeod, R. D. Painter, W. L. Ferguson and Xavier J. Bober.

Plan Stressed As Sub Bags Freighter In St. Lawrence River

face craft, have proved particularly effective because they have been unable to remain on patrol for long periods and because they can drift slowly and quietly over the Nazi submarine hunting grounds.

(The Hindenberg, buoyed by a highly inflammable gas, exploded and burned as it was about to dock at Lakehurst, N. J., on May 6, 1937, killing 36 persons.)

It was announced in Ottawa yesterday that a submarine had entered the St. Lawrence river for the first time in history Monday and sank a freighter.

Check Casualties

A ST. LAWRENCE RIVER PORT, May 13.—Some casualties in the first torpedo-sinking in Canada's inland waterways appeared probably today as check-ups among isolated fishing hamlets disclosed that 87 of 88 survivors had reached ashore.

"There may have been some losses," said the mayor of one town where most of the rescued were being tended, "but we have been asked to say nothing about the matter."

Canadian officials disclosed nothing but the bare fact that an enemy submarine penetrated the Gulf of St. Lawrence and slipped into the St. Lawrence river itself to sink a freighter Monday.

Where the torpedoing occurred or what vessel was sunk was a military secret, but it meant that a submarine had slipped at least 275 miles into Canada from the Atlantic ocean, stealing past the Dominion's heavy coastal defenses.

The Cuban government has warned against the dissemination of information pertaining to ship and aircraft movements.

Trapped in Wreck Six Hours

Trapped for nearly six hours in the locomotive cab of a freight train which jumped the rails in Cleveland's flats, John Schaffer, 30, a brakeman of Bellevue, O., is shown during his ordeal as fireman attempted to extricate him. Schaffer, conscious throughout, now is in a hospital where he is expected to recover. The locomotive, tender and nine cars of the 68-car train jumped the track. Cause of the accident remained a mystery.

Here and There About Town

Talk On Social Security

Different types of cases handled under the Social Security act were explained by Glenn H. Pittenger, manager of the district Social Security office in Youngstown, when he spoke before the Rotary club Tuesday noon in the Memorial building. Mason Wick introduced the speaker.

City Solicitor Henry Reese, chairman of the USO and United China Relief campaign in Salem, explained the needs for funds and urged support for the campaign to raise $3500 in the city and township.

Plan Memorial Rites

Committees of the various patriotic organizations of Salem will meet at the G. A. R. hall at 7:30 p. m. Friday to make arrangements for Memorial day ceremonies.

The following organizations are expected to send representatives to the meeting: Sons of Union Veterans, Daughters of the Union Veterans, Union Veterans' Auxiliary, Women's Relief Corps, American Legion, American Legion auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary.

Hospital Notes

Salem City hospital admissions yesterday include:

For surgical treatment: Joan Schuller, 355 Penn ave. Arthur V. Krebs, of New Waterford.

Wears Chaplain's Cross

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 13.—Lieut. Gregory Lock, 31, a native of Hamilton, O., today wore the chaplain's cross he exchanged for the cross cannon insignia of the coast artillery in the first transfer of its kind at Camp Callan.

The Episcopalian clergyman also was promoted from a second to a first lieutenant. When inducted into the army several months ago, Lieut. Lock applied for appointment to the chaplain corps, but was assigned to the field forces. He attended the University of Cincinnati and received his religious training at Alexandria, Va.

NAZIS CLAIMING CRIMEAN VICTORY

But Moscow Announces No Major Gains Have Been Made

guns, 260 warplanes and 'countless other war material.'

DNB, the German news agency, asserted that Nazi troops were thrusting "far beyond the Parnatch positions," on the neck of the Kerch peninsula, and declared:

"Resistance of the first Soviet defense line has been broken by artillery fire. Infantry is being thrown into the attack."

Latest Moscow dispatches said only that powerful Axis and Soviet armies fought on across the narrow Crimean peninsula, with the Germans throwing masses of cavalry, tanks, planes and troops against the Russian defenders.

"During May 12 on the Kerch peninsula, severe battles took place with the enemy," a Soviet communiqué said.

Land Behind Red Lines

A Vichy (French) broadcast said the Germans, supported by Rumanian troops, opened the offensive by landing behind Red army lines on the gulf of Feodosiya Friday night.

By late yesterday, the broadcast said, the Axis invaders had knifed across the Kerch bottleneck and reached the village of Oluspete, on the gulf of Arabat, 50 miles west of Kerch city.

The Gulf of Arabat is a needle-like inlet from the Sea of Azov, running along the east coast of the Crimea.

If accounts were true, this action apparently cut off Soviet forces farther west, splitting the Soviet armies in a familiar example of Nazi tactics.

The Germans previously had declared that the Russians were numerically superior and that fresh Red army divisions were massed at the rear of "a strong and deep defense system" behind a wide anti-tank trench.

According to this description, the Russians still had considerable strength waiting to meet the German onslaught toward Kerch city itself, which the Russians recaptured in a surprise landing during a raging snowstorm last Dec. 30.

Soviet dispatches pictured the battle as developing amid furious

New Malta Governor

Gen. Viscount Gort

While R.A.F. fighters battled Axis air raiders over the battered island stronghold of Malta, Lord Gort was sworn in as the island's governor and commander in chief. He took the oath of office in a bomb-scarred building before a chief justice whose hand was bleeding from cuts suffered as a result of a bomb blast only a few minutes before.

air attacks on both sides, with low-flying Russian anti-tank planes, called 'stormers,' destroying 102 German aircraft and 34 Nazi vehicles in two days.

The Germans said 'all hell' had been let loose on the Red armies as squadron after squadron of Nazi planes raged over their battle ranks.

Mail Job Quizzes

COLUMBUS, May 13.—State selective headquarters said today that occupational questionnaires will be mailed by May 27 to registrants of the first and second registrations who have not been inducted or enlisted in the armed forces.

Similar questionnaires already have been mailed to men in the third (Feb. 16) registration. Those addressed to men of the first and second registrations will be handled separately and the current local board classification will be added.

Senators Sign For Gas Allotment

Among motorists registering for gasoline cards along the eastern seaboard were congressmen in Washington's capitol building. Above, Senators Arthur Vandenberg (left) of Michigan and Charles McNary of Oregon are assisted by a clerk as they sign for their "X" cards, which entitles them to obtain unlimited quantities of gasoline.

Nazis Surrender on Eastern Front

Radiophoto

This radiophoto from Moscow shows an unusual episode in the war on the Eastern Front. A group of German soldiers are raising their hands in surrender while the bodies of their buddies are strewn around the trench. According to the Russian caption, this group of Germans was found waiting to surrender when the Red Army advanced to capture their trench on the Eastern Front.

Target Cities Map Defense For Bombs

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 13.—If bombs drop in Ohio, the state's farmers may have guests for the duration.

Courtney Burton, executive director of the state defense council, announced today evacuation plans being considered include moving families from stricken areas to farm homes, summer resorts and temporary quarters on county fairgrounds, including tents if necessary.

He said the program would be discussed at today's meeting of the civilian defense evacuation committee.

Moving of the families, Burton declared, is not considered as difficult as providing food and medical facilities. He added that a survey probably would be made to determine facilities available in the various areas and that temporary shelters would be built, if an emergency arose.

In calling the meeting of representatives from the state's "air raid target areas," Gov. John W. Bricker asserted that Ohio must prepare for the day when it "may be asked to care for residents of eastern states, should air raid force evacuation of the Atlantic coastal area."

Bricker stated that it would be necessary to determine the responsibility of the federal government, the state and municipalities in evacuation emergencies.

Attending the conference are representatives of the army, the Red Cross, state departments, business and industrial organizations, the Office of Civilian Defense and cities designated as target areas—Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Akron, Youngstown, Canton and Springfield.

THREE PILOTS DIE IN AIRLINES CRASH

MILES CITY, Mont., May 13.—A young army sergeant, Carl Dinius, smashed his way through the window of a crashed airliner and yanked open a cabin door to release nine passengers and the stewardess trapped in the blazing wreckage of a Northwest Airlines transport.

Three pilots lost their lives as the airliner overshot the Miles City airport in a strong wind yesterday.

While Sergeant Dinius tugged at the jammed door from the outside, Lieut. Alfred Allen of Cottage Grove, Ore., pushed from the inside. "Some walked out and we helped some," related Dinius, traveling home on furlough from Savannah, Ga., to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Dinius of Miles City.

Killed in the crash were: Captain Eugene Shank, 38, of Minneapolis, the pilot.
